222 TRAINING INTERNSHIP

Internship Information

Individuals from within Tasmanian Baptist churches, with support of their leadership, can apply to undertake a 222 Internship. The internship is designed to support emerging leaders and local churches by assisting in the design and development of youth ministry.

The internship incorporates the need for learning theory, engaging in practical ministry experience, and the important aspect of spiritual formation of the individual.

This involves:

- Completing either Submerge or youthtrac
- Participating in monthly mentoring sessions
- Undertaking additional reading and reflection exercises
- Attending both Youth Leader Retreats
- Establishing a practical ministry component to young people within and through a local church context and/or parachurch organisation
- A range of options can be explored to explore the needs of the individual, the church and the local community.

In order to establish an intern a local church is required to actively participate to encourage and support the intern and the overall ministry to young people within their local community. It is recommended that churches provide support in the following ways:

- Establish a clearly defined Job Description (in association with Intern and 222 Training Director)
- Prayer support (team, couple)
- Clear expectations communicated to all (leadership, youth, parents, others)
- Include a Youth Ministry component within overall church budget – $500 recommended
- Provide a student study support fund (including a recommended $250 for books)
